

FROM TRIESTE TO CONQUERING POLAND: DZIKI WARSZAWA'S HISTORIC BRONZE BEARS THE SIGNATURE OF TRIESTE HEAD COACH MARCO LEGOVICH

At just 33 years old, in his debut season leading the InPost-sponsored Polish club, the young coach achieves two remarkable feats: a national bronze medal and an international trophy.

Trieste, July 16, 2026 – There is a piece of Trieste in the heart of Polish basketball. Marco Legovich, a rising star of Italian coaching and the pride of Trieste basketball, has achieved a truly remarkable sporting feat at the helm of Dzik Warszawa. The team, the revelation of the Polish league, is sponsored by InPost, the European leader in out-of-home deliveries.

In his very first season coaching abroad, at just 33 years of age, Legovich successfully guided the Warsaw-based team to a historic bronze medal in the national championship—the first in the club's history. This capped off an extraordinary season already highlighted by winning the prestigious international ENBL (European North Basketball League) trophy.

Born and raised basketball-wise in Trieste, Legovich took on the Polish challenge with his trademark determination, leading Dzik to compete and win against Eastern Europe's basketball giants.

"It was an exceptional season that all of us — and all the fans — will remember for a long time. More than just a page in Dzik's history, we surpassed ourselves; we wrote several chapters! The players and the entire club have reaped the rewards of 10 months of hard work and dedication. For my part, it has been immensely satisfying to push these guys beyond their limits by going all-in every day, and seeing where they stand now as players and as men fills me with pride — comments Marco Legovich, coach of the team -. Ending the season with an ENBL title and a third-place finish in the league is not only the club's best result, but also a tremendous asset that must not be dissipated. With a strong sense of responsibility, we will work hard this summer to ensure that we start the next season on a more solid foundation and solidify our position in the league ranking".

The success of Dzik Warszawa is backed by InPost, one of Poland's largest companies, which is also experiencing rapid growth in Italy. The partnership between InPost and the club is built on shared values: speed, network density, precision, and, above all, a powerful team spirit.

"At InPost, we are extremely proud to support such a dynamic sporting organization as Dzik Warszawa, and to celebrate the success of a young Italian coach who perfectly embodies our values of innovation, speed, and ambition," comments Izabela Karolczyk-Szafrńska, Chief Marketing & ESG Officer of InPost Group. "This victory represents an ideal bridge between Poland, the beating heart of InPost, and Italy, where we are enthusiastically investing to deliver logistical solutions that are closer than ever to the community."

This bronze medal triumph is not only a historic milestone for Polish basketball, but also firmly establishes Marco Legovich on the international stage, confirming him as one of the most exciting and promising head coaches of the new European generation.
